Interest In International Affairs Vital For Seminar Delegates

Applications are now being accepted to the first International Student Relations Seminar of the Utah region by Murray McInnes, National Student Association coordinator on campus.

This seminar sponsored by the NNSA will be held April 4, 5 and 6 at the University of Utah. Any Brigham Young University students interested in the furtherance of campus relations on an international level may apply.

The purpose of the Regional Seminar is three-fold according to McInnes. It will serve to inform member campuses of the importance of NSA's overseas relations with other national unions of students.

This seminar will stimulate more effective campus foreign student and international programs through exchange of ideas among schools.

It will also create in qualified students an awareness of the personal part they may play in NSA's foreign relations program through participation in the summer International Student Relations Seminar in Cambridge Delegates to this meeting will be chosen from those representatives at the various regional seminars.

Most of the candidates to the regional seminar who are accepted by the Regional Selection Committee headed by McInnes in the Utah region will receive grants from the USNSA International Commission. This will help cover expenses in attending the seminar.

Applications are to be turned in to McInnes in the student body offices, Student Service Center, as soon as possible.

Home Ec Classes Stress Fashions

The Brigham Young University College of Family Living, home economics department, in conjunction with the Provo City Adult Education Program is offering a clothing course designed primarily for married couples of Wymount Village.

The clothing course, "'57 Fashions from '56 Wardrobe," will be taught by Mrs Raylene Broksby. The class will meet Thursday at 7 p. m. in room 3223, Smith Family Living Center. The room is the free sewing laboratory.

New Students Need Test

All freshmen and sophomores registering for the first time spring quarter are required to take an entrance exam Saturday at 8 a.m. in the Smith Ballroom, according to the testing division. The tests are required of all new freshman and sophomore students.

Presidential Hopefuls Eye Election Issues

The following presidential candidates have been confronted with various questions by Daily Universe reporters.

Rodney Fye was asked how he felt concerning the new proposed point system "I favor the point system in principle," replied the presidential candidate

Fye's comment concerned the bill that is now before the senate to give points to all offices and activities and will allow students only a certain number of points.

He replied, "Leadership is being 'hogged' by a handful of persons and the present practice of asking a 'wheel' to do everything should be abandoned in favor of a search for fresh potential."

IOC Offers Facilities

When the bill was being drafted Fye offered to make Inter-Organization facilities available to the supporters of the bill to a study of the job load of officers and members of each organization; however, this was not done "I understand such a study was made, but I don't consider it to be a thorough study," said Fye

Webb C. Crockett was confronted by a reporter for his views concerning the proposed constitution. Crockett answered, "I favor the proposed constitution generally and I feel that the committee has done a fine job; however, I feel that the new vice president jobs have not been clearly defined, especially the division of social activities."

He wonders about the mechanics envolved in putting the constitution into effect, and if it will fill the needs of the students.

Who Has Say?

The only disadvantage for students, according to Crockett, is that they do not have final say about policies and laws, which differs from the U. S. policy of leaving the final say up to its citizens.

Barrie McKay was approached with the subject of the honor system. He stated, "I'm particularly concerned about the Honor System.

"I am convinced that much concentrated effort is going to have to be made to build the Honor System into an institution with the kind of mutual benefits we desire.

"The Honor Council, too, must be freshly revamped to make it more respected (with cause) and more of a humanitarian and positive effort," says McKay.

Egypt, U.S. Discuss Gaza, Suez

CAIRO—INS—President Gamal Abdel Nasser and his full cabinet met in special session Wednesday evening to review the Gaza, Aqaba and Suez questions a few hours before Dag Hammarkjold's scheduled arrival in Cairo.

The extraordinary meeting of the 18-man cabinet climaxed a day of furious diplomatic activity.

This included the fourth conference in four days between Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi and U.S. Ambassador Raymond Hare and day-and-night sessions between Nasser and Indian Minister without portfolio V. K. Krishna Menon.

The United Nations Secretary General was scheduled to arrive on this, his fourth visit to Cairo in less than a year, shortly after midnight Wednesday (5 p.m. EST).

He is to begin official talks with Fawzi at 10 a.m. Thursday.

With tension rising over Israel's announced intention of shooting its way through the Gulf of Aqaba if necessary, diplomatic quarters predicted that what happens this week will determine Middle East war or peace.

Diplomatic informants said Hare requested the meeting with Fawzi to reemphasize that the U.S. considers the Gulf of Aqaba, Israel's link with the Red Sea and Indian Ocean, an international waterway.

Letter of Terror . . .

Hungarian Writes of Revolt

Eric Brodin, a Swedish student, received this letter from a Hungarian friend.

"Dear Eric,

"On the 20th of October, I took my one week's vacation and went to Budapest to visit my sister. The whole city was out on the streets. We did not want to shed blood, we only wanted our rights, the minimum of human rights.

"Then suddenly the Gestapo came and shot us with machine pistols into the unarmed multitudes. The people were terrified—women and children dide. We walked with empty hands towards the weapons. We had no leader, yet we knew what we must do. Later we obtained arms from the military.

"It was real war then We had no longer any fear of death. Under occupation life did not have much value. What could we lose? Either our sad lives or our slave chains To obtain our freedom came to mean life itself.

"Death, blod, grief, misery, crying, destroyed streets, whole districts ruined and fire everywhere. And the shooting would not stop. Hell has seized our hmeland.

"Without food, without sleep, we fought like lions. And hope sustained our souls, desperate hope that we would be helped. But no one helped us—we were left alone with our tragic fate. We do not complain, we are strong men. We believe in a God that will not allow us to be completely destroyed.

"Eric, I am infinitely grateful for the packages. God bless you and all your friends. MIKI"

Brigham Young University Hungarian Students fund is still open for contributions. The two students are waiting for their visas.

Tuesday's feature game will pit a Denver Ward, the first Colorado team ever to qualify for the "big show," against Logan's strong Ninth Ward contenders.

Four games are on tap for Monday with the remaining 12 tilts on Tuesday's docket.

Plain City plays Salt Lake Ninth to kick off the tournament at 7 p m Monday in the Smith Fieldhouse

Defending champion Pleasant Grove failed to qualify for the tournament.

The powerful Denver team looms as a favorite hy virtue of their 20-3 record. The Mile High City crew boasts one of the tallest teams in the tournament.

The Denver skyscrapers are led by 6-5 Raymond Goodson, forward, 6-5 center Steve Lee The forward line is completed by Grand Goodson, a 6-1 speedster. Lee leads the scoring for the Coloradoans with a 22-point average

Another favorite is Logan Ninth with a perfect 16-0 record The Loganeers are bolstered by Bob Ipsen, 6-4 center.

Provo Ninth is another team with an enviable record. The Provo quint has compiled a 20-2 mark.

No Football For Harry

Harry Anderson will not be playing football on the varsity team this coming fall.

According to Coach Robinson, Brigham Young's track coach, Anderson is ineligible for football whether he is on the track team or not.

The ruling that Anderson is not able to suit up for football came directly from the office of Commissioner Dick Romney of the Rocky Mountain Conference, and eleminates any decision that the Cat cager may have been forced to make.

Ex-Boxing Champ Denies Accusation

by Bert Okuley

MIAMI — INS — Former middleweight boxing champion Jake Lamotta took the stand in his vice trial today and vehemently denied knowing or meeting a 15-year-old girl who accused him of leading her into prostitution

Lamotta, nattily attired in a white sport coat, blue slacks and black loafers, virtually shouted some of his answers during cross examination by the prosecution.

The ex-titleholder disclosed he had "about $100,000" invested in the bar and package store he operates at Miami Beach. He denied he permitted prostitutes to use the lounge as headquarters.

He also denied having kissed his teen-aged accuser to prove that she was 21 years of age. "I have never kissed a customer in that place," Jake declared.
